Microsoft Fargo Based Employee Shares His Research Abroad

Besides working here on the Microsoft Fargo campus as an SDET, Annaji Sharma Ganti is also pursuing his PhD in computer science at North Dakota State University which he credits to the Microsoft Tuition Assistance Program. His current area of research is software testing in the Cloud. Recently he and his advisor, Dr. Tariq King, had a chance to write a research paper titled "Migrating Self-Testing into the Cloud". Their paper got selected for inclusion in the STITC Workshop which was held on April 10, 2010 in Paris France as part of the 3rd IEEE International Conference on Software Testing, Verification, and Validation (ICST 2010).

Please congratulate Annaji on his achievement when you see him around campus. To read more about Annaji's research click here.
